MANY ENJOY THE BEN GREET PRESENTATIONS

With the unique setting peculiar to him alone, Ben Greet and his company presented "Twelfth Night" Saturday afternoon and "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream" Saturday evening in his usual admirable manner to the pleasing satisfaction of a large and appreciative audience. A cleverly arranged theatre was arranged on the northeast corner of the Normal campus and in the evening particularly the setting was exceptionally well fitted to the classic presentation.

The company was welcomed by a good audience both in the afternoon and evening, and although engaged by the Stoies of the Normal and principally for the benefit of the Normal students, a large part of the audience for both shows was made up of Ypsilanti residents, showing that the right kind of entertainments in the theatrical line are not only appreciated but well patronized.

There were many scattered about the audience who have heard Ben Greet several times heretofore but his superior interpretation of Shakespeare's productions afford repeated entertainment and warrants the attendance that announcements of his appearance always effects.

JUDGE SURNED IN BY WOMAN

Son of President Angell Now Federal Judge at Detroit.

Detroit, July 3.—Alexis C. Angell, son of James B. Angell, former diplomat and president of the University of Michigan, was sworn in by a woman judge of the United States district court and circuit court for the eastern district of Michigan. He succeeds Judge Henry H. Swan, who has occupied the bench for twenty years.

Miss Carrie Davidon, who administered the oath, is the only United States commissioner in the country. President Angell came over from Ann Arbor to witness the induction of his son into office.

The body was discovered by a small boy who was fishing and who was terribly scared. He notified the police. Indications showed that the man had been drowned about four days.

REWARD FOR HIS HONESTY

Carpenter Restores $200 to Owner and Is Given Good Job.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 3.—Although he was looking for work and had only enough money to pay his fare back to Reed City, H. H. Hawley, a carpenter, turned over to the police $200 he found on the sidewalk.

Hawley came to Kalamazoo only a few hours before and it was while he was walking about the streets trying to find employment that he found the money. The cash was lost by W. E. Forier, who not only gave Hawley a good reward but also placed him to work. The $200 laid on the walk where hundreds traveled for over two hours before it was found.

MANY HAVE SWINE HABITS SAYS PASTOR

The text of the sermon preached by Dr. Beach at the Congregational church yesterday morning was the saying, "Cast not your pearls before swine, lest haply they trample them under their feet and turn again and rend you." He said,

"These words sound like a jarring note. They are not like Jesus and you would not be surprised to run across them in the Book of Ecclesiastes or the Book of Proverbs, for these books are filled with pessimism. Mr. Bernard Shaw might say this or Mr. Elbert Hubbard, but Jesus never seemed to think that anything he had to give was too good for the people, even the worst and least responsive. There is, however, another way to regard this saying, which makes it worth while for us to think about it this morning. A pearl is a symbol of value. Swine stand for the utterly brutish, stupid, soulless, selfish way of regarding all things. We human beings are often guilty of thinking and feeling and acting in a way that throws us open to the charge that the good things of life in relation to us are like pearls cast before swine."

There are three deplorable things about this general attitude towards life.

"The first is that it is entirely without any appreciation of differences. To swine everything is alike, it is just something to eat. This attitude is an insult to the hand and heart and brain that made the world. For the great glory of the world is its marvelous variety. No two things are just alike. But all this is thrown away on those who take no account of this endless variety.

"The second deplorable thing about this attitude to life is that to the swine there is only one way of absorbing or using anything. But what a vast variety of things there really are to be done with everything or anything, besides eating it or trying to eat it. The more discriminating and intelligently and variously anyone reacts upon all the wealth of life the more truly may he be said to live.

"But there is one other deplorable thing about the swine attitude to life, that is really more fundamental than either of these. This is the selfishness of it. It is mad to be stupid, undiscriminating, capable of doing nothing but eat, when there are so many other things to be done, but it is worse to be selfish. A man may be ever so intelligent and yet belong to the swine class, still. We have thousands of cultivated Americans wandering over Europe who are experts in art, who know all cathedrals, who know what is worth seeing in Switzerland and Italy and Greece, who yet have the swine view of life, for they are utterly selfish in their attitude towards all this variety of beauty and interest which they know so well how to appreciate and enjoy. The whole thing stirs within them not one throb of altruistic feeling. All they want of it is to enjoy it for themselves.

"These are the great defects of this view of life, it is undiscriminating and hence unappreciative of the good and perfect gifts of God," it is limited to just one way of enjoying and using the world and that the lowest; it is utterly selfish.

"Against all this, in sharp contrast, it is necessary to throw the teaching and example of Jesus. He knew how to live. He knew how to appreciate the immense variety of the world His Father had made. He knew how to enjoy and use it all the right way. He knew how to use food and how to use a pearl. He knew how to use physical things and moral things and spiritual things. And above all, His attitude towards it all was entirely unselfish. He didn't want to absorb it all in a selfish way. So He really got most out of life, and gave most to the world."

CONFLICT SEEN IN TESTIMONY

Politicians Work against American and Other Enterprises.

GUADALAJARA DEMONSTRATION

Meat Dealers and Sympathizers Make Protests to Government Against Modern Packing Companies.

Guadalajara, Mex., July 3.—Public manifestations against foreign interests are of almost daily occurrence here.

A vigorous campaign is being waged by the followers of the political leaders against American and other foreign enterprises that are operating under concessions granted by the preceding administration. In one of the demonstrations just made here the men engaged in the meat business in this city and scores of others gathered at the independence monument plaza, pinned on their hats signs reading, "Abajo El Monopolio," (Down with the monopoly), and marched to the government palace to register a formal protest against the Pacific Packing company and an American concern which in January last inaugurated here the most modern meat packing plant in Mexico. A committee was sent to confer with the provisional governor and a demand for the abrogation of the concession under which the plant was built was made.

These words sound like a jarring note. They are not like Jesus and you would not be surprised to run across them in the Book of Ecclesiastes or the Book of Proverbs, for these books are filled with pessimism. Mr. Bernard Shaw might say this or Mr. Elbert Hubbard, but Jesus never seemed to think that anything he had to give was too good for the people, even the worst and least responsive. ## FOREIGN GRANT ARE UNPOPULAR

Witnesses in Lorimer Case Disagree as to Facts.

ACTION FOR PERJURY POSSIBLE

Assertions of Funk and Cook Are Denied by Hines—Affidavits of Marquette Men Also Disputed by Him.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—The Lorimer investigating committee of the senate, which has adjourned to meet here again on Thursday, July 13, left the room in the senate office building, where the hearings have been held, conscious of an amazing conflict in the testimony of witnesses thus far heard, a clash which was responsible for Senator Kenyon's suggestion that "there ought to be prosecutions for perjury right here."

On the one hand are the assertions of Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, that Hines asked for a contribution of $10,000 to reimburse an expense of $100,000 in "putting Lorimer over," and of W. H. Cook that Hines said in his hearing over the long distance telephone that he would take down to Springfield all the money required.

There also are affidavits of four men as to a conversation at Marquette, Mich., in which Hines is alleged to have boasted of electing Lorimer and to have spoken of an expenditure of $10,000 in this connection.

Mr. Funk's testimony was confirmed by Cyrus H. McCormick and Edgar A. Bancroft, president and general counsel respectively of the International Harvester company, and H. H. Kohlsaat, editor of the Chicago Record-Herald, to whom he had related the conversation to the first two named immediately after its occurrence and to Kohlsaat some time later.

In this city he talked this afternoon at the soldiers' home upon world peace and arbitration, and he will address the local bankers' and editors associations this evening, regarding the Aldrich plan of currency reform.

His Indianapolis speech on Tuesday night before the Marion club will be devoted to reciprocity.

On his way here from Beverly, Mr. Taft suffered as much from the heat as he has at any time this summer in Washington. At Springfield, Mass., a large crowd gathered at the station to greet him. Mr. Taft walked to the platform perspiring profusely and raised his hands against their pleas for a speech.

"It's too hot," he said.

"Aunt Delta" Torrey left the president's car at Worcester, Mass. She lives in Millbury, Mass., and went from Worcester to her home. Miss Torrey has been away from home since the middle of June, when she came to Washington for the silver wedding.

The president did consent to a short talk at Pittsfield, Mass. They were celebrating the centennial anniversary of the settlement of their town and had invited him to be their guest, but he had been unable to accept.

Mr. Hines denied also he had called last February at Mr. Funk's office and attempted to place an innocent interpretation upon the Union League conversation as testified to by the harvester man. He swore he was constantly in Washington from Jan. 31 to Feb. 4, in 1909.

George and Frank Moun who were caught in the act of burglarizing D. L. Davis' store at the depot June 22 were brought before Judge Kinne this morning and pleaded guilty. A minimum sentence of one year or a maximum of 15 years at the state prison at Jackson was imposed upon each, the judge recommending the minimum term.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 3.—An attempt at jail delivery was nipped Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Stark, who heard an unusual noise coming from the cell block at the county jail. He made an examination and found the bars of one of the cell doors containing two youthful prisoners, George and Frank Moun, had been sawn through. The boys confessed that they had been at work on the bars for the past two days and were intending to make good their escape Sunday night. They refused to divulge the name of the person who passed them the files.

The prisoners, who claim their residence as St. Louis, Mo., but whom the police believe are from Detroit, are awaiting trial in the circuit court for breaking and entering D. L. Davis' store about two weeks ago. It would have been rather an easy matter for the prisoners to have made good their escape had their work not been discovered by the officer. They are being closely watched.

LOOT GALIEN POSTOFFICE

Galiens, Mich., July 3.—Burglars blew the safe of the Galien postoffice and secured about $400 in stamps and about $19 in change. This is the second time within two months that the village has been visited by yeggmen, the general store of Ex-Senator Blakeslee having been entered in the spring.

Sheriff Johnson believes the work is that of professional cracksmen, who are operating in northern Indiana and southern Michigan. It is believed they have headquarters across the line in the sand dunes that border the lake. After blowing the safe with nitroglycerin, the robbers made a successful getaway in a stolen rig.

The 1911 session of the Michigan Legislature enacted a Fire Marshal Law to take effect at once. There was urgent need for drastic measures, as the conditions prevailing in the United States are not matched for laxness in any other civilized country. Loss by fire amounts to $2,51 in every man, woman and child in the country; in addition 1,500 persons annually lose their lives and nearly 6,000 are injured in fires. The indifference of the people towards this condition of affairs has called for strong measures.

In brief the new law provides that:

The fire marshal and those commissioned by him may enter upon and inspect buildings as to their fire hazards.

Local officials must report all fires to the Fire Marshal within two days.

The Fire Marshal may summon witnesses and take testimony under oath, regarding suspicious fires, and may cause arrests and enforce testimony.

Officers and chiefs of the fire department have the right to enter all buildings within their jurisdiction, at reasonable hours, for the purpose of examination and can require correction of dangerous conditions, subject to the rights of the property-owner to appeal to the Fire Marshal.

WHY NOT A SYMPOSIUM IN THE PARK TOMORROW?

Ypsilanti will largely assemble in their beautiful park tomorrow for a proper observation of Independence Day, for rest and recreation. Why should not there be an informal symposium on civic betterment? Why not make plans for the permanent observation of Independence Day in such a way as to honor the day, honor the city, and promote its general welfare? It is of course late to formulate any comprehensive program, but an impromptu program along these lines could not fail to be of large interest and influence in the years to come.

Our city needs just this kind of informal getting together, meeting together especially, and talking over our community problems. This is positively the chief thing we lack in Ypsilanti. The most of us want to do the right thing and do it in the right way and do it at the right time, and not wait until it has become passé. The chief reasons that we do not do anywhere near as much as we might do is because we do not sit down together and talk it over, plan it out, and then all take hold and go forward. We rarely turn on the community switch and consequently our splendid energy along the lines of community effort and enterprise lies dormant because it isn't connected up with any specific problem, and everybody's business remains nobody's business and no business is done by the citizens at large in a community way and in a community spirit.

Why couldn't those having charge of the programs in the park take upon themselves the civic task of inviting, for example, a representative of the various organizations in the city to speak upon some civic topic or some branch of a civic topic assigned or selected by the speaker? We're all going to take the day off anyhow—why not make it the best day in the year for all concerned?

If this symposium should result in reenergizing the dormant life of some existing organization or suggest and put into motion the creation of some other more efficient civic organization, comprehending the welfare of all of the branches of civic betterment, much will have been accomplished and, if nothing more be accomplished than the waking of ourselves up, the reviving of our interests in community problems and the suggestion of even one concrete thing which is readily within our ability to accomplish, tomorrow will have been a glorious Fourth for Ypsilanti. Had we thought of it in time and planned Independence Day in such a way as to have netted for some commendable community accomplishment a neat sum of money, this would have been fine. This has been done successfully in a number of other places. But we can plan for this for Independence Day, 1912, or earlier, and we can begin to formulate the plans tomorrow.

These hot days suggest a municipal swimming-pool in each of our parks. So many have lost their lives in our treacherous river nearly every summer. These permanent cement swimming-pools probably would not cost over $600.00 each. They can be constructed so as to be safe. Our director of outdoor sports could teach the boys and girls to swim—something well worth while.

Problems for beautifying certain parts of the city need organized attention. The possibility of a beautiful boulevard needs timely attention—many problems could profitably be discussed and plans framed up for early accomplishment.

Why not inaugurate tomorrow a symposium for civic betterment, which shall be a permanent part of our Independence Day programs?

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME ON THE FOURTH.

Tomorrow bids fair to be another scorcher. Many inducements are always offered to get the people to go somewhere else to spend Independence Day; but, "be it ever so humble, there's no place like home" such weather as this, and this is especially true if there happens to be any children to be considered. About three o'clock yesterday afternoon we looked at the thermometer in the house; the mercury stood at 80. The house had been largely closed during the middle of the day to keep the heat out. We then took the thermometer out and placed it in the shade out in the yard; the mercury promptly rose eight degrees. A rise of eight degrees, when it is 104 at Marquette, is certainly a difference worth noticing and providing for.

In order to go away from home, we have to do at least two or three things that do not conduce to lowering our bodily temperature: we feel that we must dress up, so as to look respectable; then we must get out of our own comfortable home and get out into the sunshine and remain out a larger part of the time we are away from home; transportation facilities are always taxed beyond their power to comfortably accommodate; crowds always intensify the heat, maximize the confusion and minimize the comforts. Living leaves its normal, healthful comfortable lines and enters the abnormal. Different kinds of food and drink help to hasten sickness and both children and parents are fortunate indeed if the day after the Fourth isn't a miserable one, if not something decided worse.

Ypsilantians certainly have no good reason to leave home in order to properly observe Independence Day. Our beautiful shady streets and parks and lawns and their comfortable homes will, with the cost of going away to our credit, furnish us, we believe, a much saner and safer Fourth than can be obtained elsewhere.

AMUSEMENTS

ELEPHANT IS A GREAT GYMNAST

An elephant that walks on its hind feet on a tight rope without the use of a balancing pole is one of the trained animal features that will be seen in Ann Arbor on Tuesday, July 4, with the Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' circus.

There are many other startling displays among the trained animal acts. There are more real trained animals with this show than with all others combined.

The famous Capt. Webb's two troupes of trained seals and sea lions are also to be seen. This is the very latest achievement in acts of this kind. It is by all odds the greatest example of brute education the world has ever known.

There are three herds of the best trained elephants in the world, performing in three rings at the same time. Their feats are all new. Three companies of dog actors perform with them. At one time during the number these elephants form a gigantic pyramid. The animal at the apex of the group is twenty feet from the ground. He holds his trunk as high as he can above him. On the very tip of the trunk sits a dog.

The high standard set by this show is evidenced not alone by its animal training features, but by every other specialty that goes to make a complete circus. The best of everything is the motto of the management. The riders, acrobats, aerialists, gymnasts, tumblers and clowns are all the elite of circuses, the cream of all the best talent in the world.

Change In Temperature

Reported For Wednesday

Ypsilanti is experiencing today the hottest weather of the year. The mercury since 10 o'clock this morning has been around 100. The thermometer at the Hawkins House at noon registered 120, and at the City Water Works office 119. Davis and Kishlar's thermometer on Huron street registered 100 at 10 this morning. The weather would seem almost unbearable if it were not for the breeze which sprang up this morning. Sunday it was almost stifling and during the night there seemed to be almost no air stirring until about 3 o'clock. The thermometer at 5 o'clock registered 87. People who were obliged to do shopping were out early this morning and by noon the streets were deserted.

Many people who had planned to go out of town for an outing for the Fourth have decided to remain in the city instead of attending any celebration in another city.

No heat prostrations, however, were reported up to noon today.

In Detroit on Sunday the government thermometer registered 98 degrees. It has risen higher than that on but two occasions, July 17, 1887, when it reached 101, and on August 12, 1881, it went up to 99.

According to the reports from Washington, high temperature will prevail the first part of the week in the northern and middle states east of the Mississippi river followed by a change to lower temperature in these districts about Wednesday.

Haggitt Funeral To Be Held Tuesday

Mr. Haggitt leaves besides his wife and three children of Detroit, a brother, Scott Haggitt and a sister, Miss Louise Haggitt, also of Detroit, and a mother, Mrs. Green, of this city.

Mr. Haggitt, who at the time of the accident was pulling in new wires when in trying to change his position he came into contact with a current of 4,600 volts. The wires burned down through his back before he could reach him, as he was at the top of one of the poles. The right arm was also burned through the bone and the body fell a distance of about 55 feet to the ground.

Mr. Haggitt had been the victim of a number of accidents during his life.

It was only last summer when trying to stop a run-away horse which was hitched to one of the company's wagons he was crushed between a brick wall and the wagon which caused internal injuries.

Many an Ypsilanti Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Ypsilanti readers.

John P. Burkheimer, 15 W. Congress St., Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "I had more or less trouble from my back and kidneys for some time and there was often a constant, dull ache across to stoop. That my kidneys were disordered and the cause of my trouble was shown by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. When I chanced to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Weinmann-Matthews Co.'s drug store and upon using them as directed received great benefit. This remedy acted as a tonic to my kidneys and made me feel better in every way. There is no question about Doan's Kidney Pill's living up to the claims made for them."
